

PROFILE

Peter Njiru Muriithi

---

Peter has had a varied career life. He started as a pilot with the Kenya Air Force and then transferred to the Kenya Police and then to the Special Branch where he was a training officer. He served in Kenya Breweries for 22 years as the Group Risk Manager before changing his life to do theology which is now his passion. He was the Director of Development at St. Andrew's College of Theology and Development for eight years and is now a director of Integrated Community Organization for Sustainable Empowerment and Education for Development Programme (ICOSEED) which is involved in empowering especially the young people in the fight against poverty, the threat of HIV/AIDS, and food security which has now brought ICOSEED into the sphere of biotechnology. Peter enjoys preaching and teaching about the Good News of God